

With over 30 years of playing bass under his belt. Tracy Mckee has had the pleasure of playing thousands of shows. Playing anywhere from small honky-tonks to places such as MGM Grand Las Vegas and the famous Grand Ole Opry in Nashville, Tennessee.

While living in Nashville, Tracy played nearly every club up and down the legendary Broadway Strip in Nashville and toured all over the USA playing night clubs, casinos, and festivals. On several occasions while playing on Broadway, artists such as John Rich from Big and Rich and singer songwriter Cole Swindell would come on stage and join in. Tracy has also performed in the studio on both sides of the desk as bassist and producer.

He now lives back in Indiana with his wife Amy and plays bass with SouthRidge, does studio sessions, and subs as bassist with other bands when he's not playing with SouthRidge. As a seasoned bassist Tracy can always be counted on to bring a professional attitude and performance to every show.
